The Exhibition features the prize-winning works and commended entries in painting, sculpture, printmaking, drawing and photography.

Gallery 2

8th July—1st August

'Emerge'

Presented by Deonach TPP and Tallaght Community Arts

A showcase of work created by students working with Artsbase and Artslink including painting, photography and mosaic. The eclectic mix of media and style reflects the students broad range of skills and interests.

11th August—12th September

'One World Many Dreams'

RUA RED presents an installation of work by artist Gary Somers.

Tibetans have been living in exile since 1959, the year the 14th Dalai Lama fled to the north Indian city of McLeod Ganj, Dharamsala. This work looks at how Tibetans have been coping with life in exile and questions the control of political power, the nature of an oppressive regime and the place of personal experience.

CONTACT Studio

A South Dublin County Council Arts Office initiative, CONTACT studio is an affordable facility for artists, youth groups and community groups in the county to record and archive their work. It also provides opportunities for people interested in music to spend time in a professional recording environment, taking part in workshops on song writing, music technology, music production etc. The studio has been equipped to an extremely high standard, can cater for all styles of music, and is ideally suited to musicians that are in the early stages of their recording career. Musicians can be provided with a finished cd, including their own printed artwork, to use as demo material or to sell at gigs.

Public Art

On the 27th June 2009 drivers on the N81 noticed a rather different type of ball moving around Tallaght Stadium. Over eight meters in diameter, this giant ball was part of a public project by Dutch artists Bik van der Pol, commissioned by South Dublin County Council. The installation was filmed and will be shown in RUA RED (29th June to 4th July, 5.30pm—6.30pm) and the Project Arts Centre from June to August this year. For more information visit
